

LIFE INSTITUTE JACK BROWN AWARD 2012 Application Information and Guidelines

What is the LIFE Institute Jack Brown Award?

The LIFE Institute Award was created in 1996 in order to recognize and reward undergraduate and or graduate students at Ryerson University committed to studies and activities designed to improve the life of seniors in the community at large. The name of the Award was changed to 'The LIFE Institute Jack Brown Award' in 1999 to honour Jack Brown, Past President of LIFE Institute and advocate of lifelong learning for seniors.

What is the value of the LIFE Institute Jack Brown Award?

Each recipient will receive a cash award of $1,000.00 to be deposited directly to the student's tuition fee account.

What is the criteria and selection process?

- currently enrolled in a undergraduate and or graduate program at Ryerson University
- is a Canadian citizen and permanent resident of Ontario
- is in financial need
- can demonstrate an interest in and or involvement in studies or activities which enhance the quality of life for seniors.

The selection committee will choose the Award winner based on the above criteria.

A formal presentation of this Award will be made at a special ceremony in March 2012. Recipients of this award will be expected to attend.

How to apply?

LIFE Institute Jack Brown Award application forms are available online on the Ryerson University website www.ryerson.ca/financialaid/scholarshipaward/universitywide or may be obtained from the Financial Assistance Office, POD59, 350 Victoria Street. Completed applications must be received at the LIFE Institute office, 3rd floor, Room 306, Heaslip House, 297 Victoria Street early in February, 2012.

The successful candidate will be notified by mail and his/her name posted on the continuing education website.

NOTE: Students are expected to be honest in providing information on Award applications and in any subsequent discussions. If there is clear evidence that a student has misrepresented her/his circumstances or achievements, the Award will be refused or withdrawn.
