

Ryerson Philosophy Club presents:

Luis Jacob: Stretching the Social Fabric

A talk by accomplished Toronto artist and activist.

An artist, curator, educator, writer, organizer and activist, Luis Jacob's practice challenges categorization. His art production alone manifests itself as photography, sculpture, performance, artist multiples, public intervention, video and installation. Jacob's pursuits are varied, but all are unified by his thoughtful concern for the philosophical and cultural possibilities of social interaction.

Jacob's art has been exhibited in Berlin, Germany, Helsinki, Finland, Rotterdam, The Netherlands, Cape Town, South Africa and across Canada and the U.S.

All are welcome.

For more information, contact philclub@ryerson.ca

Details

Thursday,
March 8, 2007

6 p.m. with reception
to follow

Oakham Lounge,
63 Gould St.