

Graduate Diploma [GDip (Type 3)]Professional Master's Diploma in Finance for Social Innovation

The Professional Master's Diploma in Finance for Social Innovation will provide a detailed overview of new financial instruments for funding and investing in organizations with a mandate to address social issues. "Finance for Social Innovation" describes a growing sector outside the conventional world of financial services organizations that seek market-based solutions to fund organizations and projects seeking to address social issues. The program content represents an emerging area of study in finance. It draws on the subfields of corporate governance, behavioural finance, business ethics, and management. This area represents a small, but growing area of research within the field of finance and economics. It is also an active area in several fields of social science, including sociology, social services, economics, and management.

Approved by Ryerson University Senate October 6, 2015

Approved to Commence COU Quality Council June 17, 2016