Course listing

Major Project

The student is required to complete a Major Project. This is to be a substantial and original work of journalism, demonstrating mastery of the chosen medium and competence in carrying out research. It is not required that the Major Project be published, but it should be of publishable quality. The Project's subject matter and methods should also reflect the student's awareness of journalism's important role in civil society. The research topic is selected in consultation with the student's supervisor(s); a formal proposal is submitted for approval; and the research is carried out under the direction of the supervisor(s). On completion, the finished Project (accompanied by a reflective essay) is submitted to the supervisor(s) and one additional reader, who assess and grade it. This is a "Milestone." Pass/Fail

JN8101 Covering the City

Using the city as a laboratory, students will learn the fundamental skills of journalism by carrying out demanding, practical reporting and writing assignments in various urban locations and settings. Students will learn how to generate and assess story ideas; how to research, observe, interview and otherwise gather information; and how to write for publication across multiple platforms, bearing in mind the requirements of clarity, thoroughness, balance, and accuracy. 2 Credits

JN8102 Internship

Each student will be placed as an intern in a professional newsroom. On completing the internship, each student will be required to write a substantial paper of theoretical and practical reflection on his or her experience, focusing on what has been learned about the possibilities of introducing new journalistic forms and approaches into professional newsrooms.

Pass/Fail. 2 Credits

JN8103 Reporting and Data Methods

This course will focus specifically on reporting and research methods required for journalists, including the essentials of data journalism. Students will learn digital research skills to determine the accuracy and veracity of information, as well advanced library and bibliographic skills, allowing them to inform themselves quickly about unfamiliar subjects and specialized techniques such as access requests, title searches and corporate searches and methods of interviewing. 1 Credit

JN 8104 Urban Politics and Society for Journalists

Students in this course will gain a solid base of knowledge about urban affairs, broadly defined, that will help them produce insightful coverage of different aspects of urban society, including diversity, public health, business, race and Indigenous issues. The course involves critiques and analyses of news reporting on urban issues as well as lectures by experts in such areas as municipal politics, citizens' movements, cultural scenes and multiculturalism. 1 Credit

JN8106 The History of News

This course will study the evolution of journalism from 1600 to the present, with a particular (but not exclusive) emphasis on developments in Canada. It will examine the various forms that news took at different periods and in different places; how news influenced culture and was influenced by it, as well as by changing technology, business organization, and markets; how different audiences used and responded to news; and how the producers of news understood their work in relation to their society, their audiences, their employers and their peers. 1 Credit

JN8107 Law and Ethics for Journalists

This course will examine and compare legal and ethical constraints and dilemmas faced by reporters, editors and producers in fulfilling duties owed to sources, subjects, audiences, peers, and employers. These issues will be probed and debated in light of case studies, readings from legal and philosophical works, and the insights of guests including lawyers, ethicists and professional journalists. Included will be the law of libel and contempt, and the intricacies of court reporting, such as the treatment of juveniles involved in crimes. 1 Credit

JN8108 Journalism Innovation

Working in small groups, students will explore the challenges facing journalists and the industry today by developing and pitching an entrepreneurial journalism project with potential solutions to address specific issues. Using startup methodologies and design-thinking approaches, they will address industry challenges such as measuring engagement, growing revenue and keeping up with emerging technologies. 1 Credit

JN8109 Directed Studies

Individual directed study of subject areas in journalism not addressed in the current curriculum will be carried out under the supervision of a faculty member. A program of supervised, advanced study related to the student's area of concentration will be negotiated on an individual basis with the supervising faculty member. 1 Credit

JN8111 Essential Editing

In this course students will learn the essential concepts and skills of editing stories and visuals across multiple platforms. Subjects covered include editing for style, grammar, accuracy and substance; best practices for digital news, features and interactives; basics of design for web and mobile journalism. Pass/Fail (equivalent to 0.5 Credits)

JN8201 Producing the News

In this course, students will learn essential audio and video skills to produce news and short feature stories for broadcast and digital platforms, with a focus on deadline-driven coverage and the particular requirements of gathering and presenting information for each platform. Working in teams, students will learn several aspects of production to prepare and present their own reports. Detailed group and individual critiques of student work will be a key method of learning. 1 Credit

JN8202 Digital Journalism Studio

Students report, edit and produce digital journalism in correlation with their work in Producing the News and Narrative Journalism. Students will learn how to use with new and evolving digital tools, use social media to collect and distribute information, produce multimedia stories, write and edit digital news and features, as well as understand principles of reader engagement. Group and individual critiques will play a key role in this learning process. 1 Credit

JN8203 Narrative Journalism

Students learn longform journalism techniques, methods of interviewing and approaches to narrative structure across multiple platforms, with a focus on in- depth features for magazines and newspapers. Examples of award-winning work, written and multimedia, will be studied and analyzed, and students will learn to produce their own longform feature. Methods of interviewing and approaches to narrative structure will be among the topics covered. Detailed group and individual critiques will be a key method of learning. 1 Credit

JN8301 Journalism Masthead- News

This is the central professional course in the program's second year. In it, students will use everything they have learned so far to produce The Ryersonian, a digital, broadcast and newspaper platform that covers the campus and the city. The focus will be on producing highly polished work and on meeting high standards of newsworthiness and thoroughness. Through detailed group and individual critiques, students will reach professional standards of achievement. Antirequisite: JRN903. 2 Credits

JN8303 Journalism Masthead- Narrative

This is the central professional course in the program's second year. In it, students will use everything they have learned so far, both practical and academic, to produce an issue of the Ryerson Review of Journalism, an award-winning magazine with extensive digital outputs. The focus will be on producing highly polished work across multiple platforms. Through group and individual critiques, students will reach professional standards of achievement. Antirequisite: JRN95 2 Credits

JN8310 Journalism Masthead

This lab course acquaints students with the challenges of producing daily news and current affairs across multiple media platforms. Students will refine and build on skills in writing, reporting, interviewing, newsroom leadership, journalistic initiative, newsgathering, and the technical skills that accompany information dissemination. Through daily production, students will meet the demands of maintaining an online news site, as well as producing a regular television newscast and a weekly community newspaper. Antirequisites JRN910, JN8301, JN8302, JN8304. 2 Credits

JN8401 Television Documentary

This is a laboratory course in documentary production. The emphasis is on effective storytelling through the medium of the television documentary. Particular emphasis will be placed on the relationship between the audiovisual and written elements of a documentary. Students will form production teams that will plan, write, shoot, and edit documentaries. A significant amount of work will be done outside of class time. Antirequisite: JRN800. 2 Credits

JN8402 Adv Rsrch Mthds: Invst Techniq

In this course, students will learn the theory and various techniques of investigative journalism. The emphasis will be on how investigative journalism serves the profession's civic mandate; how to identify appropriate subjects for investigative approaches; how to gather and analyze relevant data systematically and rigorously; and how to circumvent common obstacles. Antirequisite: JRN315. 1 Credit

JN8403 Business Journalism

This course will prepare students to work as business journalists. Topics covered will include basic economic and financial concepts, Canadian business structure and organization, specific techniques for locating and interpreting financial information and different approaches to business coverage.
