Note on Enrollment in Clinical courses:

During clinical placements, students are expected to attend on a full-time basis and are on-call 24 hours per day, 7 days a week. In addition to attending births, and doing clinic visits, students are also expected to attend postpartum visits in clients' homes, participate in weekly tutorials and complete academic assignments as required. They are entitled to only two days off call each month for the duration of each placement. The demands are much greater than that of a regular fulltime course load, such that students are not able to maintain employment while enrolled in clinical placement courses.

In addition to the unique academic and physical challenges of the program, students incur additional significant financial expenses unlike those found in other programs. For example, students are required to have a vehicle which adds insurance and repair costs to their budget. In addition, students don't have control over where in Ontario their clinical placements will be located. This can add travel costs, costs of a second residence, long-distance charges, etc to their expenses.
