Support Area Updates

Academic Accommodation Support offers SHIFT (Students Heading Into Full-Time), a one-day transition program for incoming first-year students with an identified disability, where students learn tips on navigating accommodation plans and campus culture, as well as how to access valuable resources and support for success. Find dates registration, and further updates on ryerson.ca/shift

English Language Support provides programs for students who use English as an additional language. Students can book 50-minute individual appointments, delivered either in person or via Skype, to work on their writing, speaking & listening, and presentation skills.

Over the summer, 2 conversation group sessions are offered that help participants learn how to use language appropriately in different contexts. Programming runs from May 14 to August 17.

Graduate Student Support offers in-person and phone appointments, online workshops and videos, as well as two weekly groups this Spring -- Thesis and MRP Support Group and Coffee and Writing Group. Spring programming starts on May 14th. Graduate students can also join a 4-day dissertation retreat three times a year and meet with a Dissertation coach.

This past April, we held our best Graduate Write-a-thon yet, with 43 PhD and Master’s students producing 268 pages in one day. That’s over eighty thousand words we wrote and revised together!

Math Support offers three types of programming for current undergraduates: (1) drop-in tutoring, (2) individual help by appointment, and (3) online tutoring for Math and Computer Science. We will also offer online midterm and exam review for specific math courses. Drop-in hours for the Spring/Summer are Monday to Friday, 2pm to 5pm.

For in-coming Faculty of Science students, Math Support will be hosting the Step-Ahead Online Math Course from July 16 to August 10.
