

PARTICIPATING IN CO-OP MAKES GOOD BUSINESS SENSE

KEY FACTS FOR EMS MAJORS

The Economics and Management Science (EMS) program offers a co-op option providing students with up to 16 months of paid work experience.

If you are interested in joining this growing program, your next step is to visit the Business Career Hub to discuss how to apply.

"It's an honour to be working for Projectcore Inc. on the Mirvish+Gerhy Development project in Toronto. I've also had the opportunity to attend exclusive networking events that are not open externally; this has been one of the biggest perks of my Co-op experience."

- Lucy Yin

TOP EMPLOYERS TARGET TRSM STUDENTS

TRSM Co-op students work in a variety of industries and business areas. Ranging from start-ups to multinational organizations in private sector, government and not-for-profit sectors, co-op students drive value to their companies while leveraging what they learn in the classroom.

“Co-op allowed me to test-drive multiple career opportunities within different industries. Co-op allowed me to apply my course content to a real world setting, to challenge myself, and to build an invaluable network along the way. Co-op was one of the best decisions I’ve made and I highly recommend all students to pursue it.”

- Emad Shaikh

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?

Co-op fees (2017/18) are $3,500 and are paid out in 5-7 installments. On average, Co-op students earn $36,000 over the course of their workterms.
